RE: DEMAND FOR RETRACTION AND CORRECTION, NOTICE TO CEASE FUNDING OF TORTIOUS PUBLICATION, AND LITIGATION-HOLD / PRESERVATION DEMAND -- Notice Under MCL 600.2911(2)(b) and Tex. Civ. Prac. & Rem. Code Sec. 73.055

Mr. Hein:

I write to you in your capacity as Trustee of the Deborah Dew Survivable Trust. This letter (1) demands retraction and correction of false and defamatory statements to the extent you or the Trust have published, republished, or materially assisted in their publication; (2) puts you on formal notice to cease any use of Trust funds or assets to fund or facilitate those publications; and (3) demands that you and the Trust preserve all relevant records. I make this demand to preserve my rights and remedies, including exemplary and statutory damages, under MCL 600.2911(2)(b) and Tex. Civ. Prac. & Rem. Code Sec. 73.055.

I am alive. On June 24, 2026, the Redford Township Police Department conducted a welfare check and confirmed in person that I am alive and well.

I. THE FALSE AND DEFAMATORY STATEMENTS

A coordinated campaign has published false and defamatory statements asserting, among other things, that I am dead, that I was murdered or "burned alive," and that I am a "criminal imposter" who murdered Conrad Rockenhaus and is impersonating him to steal veteran disability benefits. These statements have been published through, without limitation, the websites conradrockenhausisdead.com and conradrockenhausisdead.cc and a network of associated social media accounts. Each of these statements is false and defamatory per se.

II. INFORMATION AND BELIEF AS TO FUNDING

On information and belief, Trust funds or assets, and/or funds or assets within your control as Trustee, have been used to pay for or otherwise facilitate the domain registrations, hosting, registrar services, or other instrumentalities used to publish the false statements identified above.

III. DEMAND

To the extent you or the Deborah Dew Survivable Trust have published, republished, financed, or materially assisted in the publication of any of the false statements identified above, I demand that you, within the time provided by law:

1. RETRACT and CORRECT each such false statement, fully and unconditionally, with the same prominence and through the same channels as the original publication;
2. CEASE AND DESIST -- immediately and permanently -- from using, authorizing, or permitting the use of any Trust funds, assets, or resources to pay for, fund, facilitate, or otherwise support the publication of any of the false statements identified above, or any substantially similar false statement, concerning me; and
3. PRESERVE -- this is a formal litigation-hold demand -- all documents, communications, financial records, accounting records, ledgers, bank and payment records, invoices, receipts, domain and hosting and registrar records, and electronically stored information relating to: (a) any payment for or funding of the domains, hosting, or registrar services used to publish the statements identified above; (b) any communications between you or the Trust, on the one hand, and Adrienne M. Rockenhaus or any person acting in concert with her, on the other hand, concerning me, the publications, or the funding thereof; and (c) the administration of the Trust as it relates to the foregoing. Do not delete, alter, or destroy any such material. Spoliation of this evidence will be pursued to the full extent the law allows.

IV. NOTICE OF INTENDED CLAIMS

Please be advised that I intend to file a civil action in which the Deborah Dew Survivable Trust, and you in your capacity as its Trustee, will be named. The use of trust assets to fund or facilitate tortious conduct directed at me, if established, implicates both liability for the underlying torts and questions of fiduciary duty. This letter preserves my rights and remedies, including exemplary and statutory damages, and waives none of them; all rights and remedies are expressly reserved.

Govern yourself accordingly.
